Students interested in the statistics on Toefl scores can consult the test score and the Summary date for the Toefl iBT document, which provides detailed cheeks of scores by type of student, genre, region and country of origin. The Toefl iBT Research Insight Series is a group of short relationships on topics ranging from toefl history to information on the Toefl for teachers. The Toefl Research Report Archives is a database of ETS publications on the Toefl dating back to the 70s. The database does not include the complete text of all articles, but researchers can review Abstracts and request copies of complete reports. The tests that intend to register for the Toefl by phone or ordinary mail must download, print and complete a hard copy of the registration form. Students who require the collection of their tests complete this procedure with the Toefl iBT Score Review Request Form, which is also downloaded from the ETS website. Other important downloadable modules include the registration form for test-traaikers with disabilities or needs related to health, the request form of the additional score relationship, the score return request form, and the refund request form. In many cases, there are separate forms for iBT and PBT. The Toefl Information and Registration Bulletin, published in separate versions for iBT and PBT, can be downloaded without costs on the ETS website. The bulletin contains important information on registration, test policies and procedures, reporting of scores and reporting codes for the countries and university departments.
